

Leasing Rules and Regulations

Owners who wish to lease their units must be in good standing on their unit condominium assessment accounts.

Commented [MW1]: This makes no sense. Is it two weeks or five days?

The documents listed below must be submitted by unit owners to the condominium owners association office at least two (2) weeks in advance of the guests arrival and no later than five (5) days prior to the commencement of the lease or a $100 fee will be charged.

1. A copy of the Airbnb/VRBO confirmation naming all tenants who are over 18 or an executed lease agreement naming all tenants who are over 18.
2. An executed lease addendum (naming and signed by all tenants who are over 18). The lease addendum can be downloaded from the documents page at www.watersidesouth.com.
3. An administration fee in the amount of $100. (Please notify the office if the owner or the tenant will pay the fee.)

No tenant will be registered with the office until all required materials are received. Failure to register your renters is a violation of the community rules and will incur a fine.

Per St. Petersburg city code, owners may lease their units only three (3) times per year for less than 30 days. Leases for 30 days or longer are not subject to this restriction.

To renew a lease, the owner or the property manager should complete and provide a copy of the lease extension to the office. If a renewal not received within ten (10) days of the renewal date, transponders and amenity cards of the renters will be deactivated until the renewal is received or the owner requests an extension.

The office is no longer requiring the results of a criminal-background check for U.S. citizens. The association does, however, recommend that owners obtain background checks for prospective renters. For non-U.S. citizens, the association recommends that owners obtain a copy of the information page of each adult resident's foreign passport in lieu of a background check.

Tenants must check in at the office on the first business day after arriving. Tenants who will be driving a car on the Waterside South grounds must provide a valid driver's license along with their vehicle registration or their rental-car agreement.
